Modern Production

Sasol Wax is the leading specialist in the manufacture of paraffin waxes, Fischer-Tropsch hard waxes and other wax-related products world-wide. Our in-depth application expertise and highly developed production technology are the basis of our success.

Thanks to our ongoing investments in modern equipment and the latest technologies, we produce our products not only cost effectively but also in an environmentally friendly way.

We guarantee:

- Monitoring of all production processes by a central process management system
- Conformance to the required product specification through modern computer-aided analytical methods
- Application related production according to the latest state of the art production technology
- Environmentally compatible production methods
